Charlotte de Witte

Belgian techno artist known for raw minimalism and commanding international festival stages.

Biography

Charlotte de Witte (born 21 July 1992 in Ghent, Belgium) is a DJ and producer celebrated for her stripped-back, acid-infused brand of techno. She began DJing in 2010 under the alias “Raving George,” winning a Studio Brussel contest that led to her debut at Tomorrowland. In 2015, she adopted her real name and shifted stylistically toward hypnotic minimal techno.

Her breakthrough EP `Weltschmerz` (Turbo Recordings) solidified her sound. She’s performed at major festivals including Junction 2, Awakenings, Printworks, Boiler Room, and Ultra Miami. Since 2019, she’s regularly appeared in DJ Mag’s Top 100, peaking at #14 in 2022.

In 2019, de Witte founded KNTXT, a label that’s released music by Chris Liebing, Monoloc, and Alignment. In 2022, she and partner Enrico Sangiuliano released a remix of “The Age of Love,” which topped Beatport’s techno chart and earned gold certification.

In 2024, she launched a second imprint, Époque, focused on reworking iconic Belgian tracks. That year she opened a pop-up KNTXT Store in Brussels, and in 2025 drew 12,500 fans to a free outdoor set at Stadshal Ghent.
